Rafał Taubenschlag

"L’amnistie des vicennalia de Dioclétien d’après P. Oxy. 2187", W. Seston, "Chronique d’Égypte", no 44, 1947 : [recenzja]

The Journal of Juristic Papyrology 3, 169

1949
there was the intention with this indictment to intend a process against him based on the usual analogy with the Lex Cornelia de falsis or whether the intention was to put things simply in to the right place.

CRIMINAL LAW

The author establishes that Diocletian became emperor on September 17th or September 19th 284 A.D. and that he granted an amnesty on the occasion of his vicennalia (which in fact were celebrated after the elapse of only 19 years). We find traces of this grant in Oxy. 2187 (cf. the remarks of W. Ensslin, Zum dies imperii des Kaisers Diocletian, Aegyptus XXVIII (1948) pp 178—194).