cessary formal requirement for the six witness-deeds but in principle in all cases in which he is mentioned, plausible reasons for his appearance can be given.

Sir Harold J. Bell, The custody of records in Roman Egypt (The Indian Archives 4. (1950), 116—125).

This article was written upon request for a contribution to a memorial number of the Indian Archives. The article is destined for the archivists and supplies information on the methods used in Roman Egypt to preserve official records, and deals with various recorders as they appear in the Greek papyri from all periods.

Leopold Wenger, Papyrologische Miszelle zu P. Hamb. 72 (Studi in onore di V. Arangio-Ruiz IV, 419—422).

In this article the author refers to the importance of the formularies for the wording of deeds and makes some suggestions about the reading of P. Hamb. 72. His suggestion in the line 3: substitutione mutua (cf. Papin. Dig. 31, 64) quaeque pars hereditatis is very plausible.

Walter Till, Koptische Parallelurkunden (Studi in onore di V. Arangio-Ruiz IV, 197).

In his essay ἴσον and ἀντίγραφον Bernhard Kübler is concerned with the manner of drawing up and duplicating Greek deeds. He has proved that ἀντίγραφον denotes the original copy whereas ἴσον is the duplicate, the second authentic copy. Therefore ἴσα are two identical copies of the same deed. Walter Till in his article deals with these questions in regard to Coptic deeds.
