This dissertation is devoted to P. Berl. Inv. 16. 976/977 published by Schubart in „Festschrift für Leopold Wenger” (vol. II) under the title „Actio condicittia et longi temporis praescriptio”. With penetrating criticism the autor analyses the theories of Seidl and his pupil Dr Rudolf Regler, presented in a not printed dissertation „Gedanken zu Pap. Berl. Inv. 16.976/977” and develops his own hypothesis that the fragments deal with various praescriptiones temporariae. The author points out that this text is of topical importance for the question on the legal working of the local and provincial law after the C. A.

E. Seidl, Studia et Documenta Historiae et Iuris XV (1949) p. 335 — 336.

Seidl's X survey on legal papyrology contains very interesting remarks on Berl. Zill. N^o. 8 (663 A. D.). In this papyrus a colonus, convicted of a theft but not yet brought to punishment promises by a written oath to pay a fine in case of being tried for a new theft, besides παραδοθῆναι με τῷ ἐνδόξῳ πραιτω(ρίῳ) [χ(α)ί] ζημίᾳ ὑποκ]εῖσθαι ἐπὶ νοτιῶ πληγγῶν and confirms all that by a stipulatio. This would be impossible from the point of view of the imperial law, but it is admissible under the ancient Egyptian law (cf. Seidl, Einführung 50).
