Authors

Linde Apel is a historian and head of the Workshop of Memory interview archive at the Research Centre for Contemporary History in Hamburg, Germany. Her research focuses on oral history, migration and the history of the Holocaust. Latest publication: Tuning in: Emotions, Relations, and Dynamics in the Analysis of an Archived Interviews, "Oral History Review", vol. 51 (2024), issue 1, pp. 136–154 (with Andrea Althaus, Lina Nikou and Janine Schemmer).

apel@zeitgeschichte-hamburg.de

Dominika Cieplak graduate of the Faculty of Architecture, Kraków University of Technology and a Ph.D. student at the same university. Her interests focus on the culture of national and ethnic minorities, regional art, and folk crafts. Her research interests include the psychology of architecture and the memory of place, commemorative art, and the protection of the cultural heritage of southeastern Poland; recipient of the 1st prize in the 3rd edition of the competition for the best bachelor's and master's theses using oral history given by the "Remembrance and Future" Centre and Polish Oral History Association.

anielacieplak@gmail.com

Andrzej Czyżewski Assistant Professor at the Department of Recent Political History, Institute of Political Studies, Polish Academy of Sciences. Research interests: the history of the Polish democratic opposition, the situation of the scientific community in the People's Republic of Poland, the history of historiography, the events of March '68, the politics of memory and oral history. The author of, among others Proces destalinizacji polskiej nauki historycznej w drugiej połowie lat 50-tych XX w. (Warszawa 2007), and Czerwono-biało-czerwona Łódź. Lokalne wymiary polityki pamięci historycznej w PRL (Warszawa 2021).

czyzewski@politic.edu.pl

Alina Doboszewska is a culture athropologist, reasercher at the Institute of Sociology of the Jagiellonian University. President of Dobra Wola Foundation in Kraków. Member of the Polish Oral History Association, Oral History Society and Ukrainian Oral History Association. Her scientific interests include theoretical and practical aspects of oral history methodology, the Ukrainian dissidents movement, wartime and post-war migrations. As the NGO activist she has completed over a dozen oral history projects in Poland, Ukraine, the Czech Republic, Slovakia and Sweden, and 11 documentary films based on interviews.

alina.doboszewska@uj.edu.pl

Ewelina Ebertowska MA, graduate in Eastern Studies and ethnology; PhD student at the Institute of Anthropology and Ethnology, Adam Mickiewicz University in Poznań, where is researching the topic of mixed Polish-Armenian marriages. She participates in research and the conduct of research projects related to ethnoarchaeology and commemorative practices in Pomerania.

ebertowskaewelina94@gmail.com

Kamil Federyga graduate of the Faculty of Architecture, Kraków University of Technology; student of Swedish philology at the Department of Nordic Studies, Institute of Germanic Philology, Jagiellonian University. His research interests focuses on the culture and history of national and ethnic minorities in the context of architecture, as well as on the use of oral history to restore memory; recipient of the 1st prize in the 3rd edition of the competition for the best bachelor's and master's thesis using oral history given by the "Remembrance and Future" Centre and Polish Oral History Association.

kamilfederyga@gmail.com

Jakub Gałęziowski PhD in history from the University of Augsburg and the University of Warsaw (2021). He wrote a dissertation about Polish children born of war – whose mothers belonged to the occupied society and fathers to the occupiers. He works at University of Warsaw (Faculty of Culture and Arts) with an interest in oral history and biographical method, as well as in ethical aspects and the role of emotions in academic research. He is a co-founder of the Polish Oral History Association (currently serves as president) and a member of editorial board of the "Wrocławski Rocznik Historii Mówionej".

jakub.galeziowski@gmail.com

Damian Gocół PhD in linguistics, assistant at the Department of Semantics, Pragmatics and Theory of Language at Maria Curie-Skłodowska University in Lublin, publishing editor, journalist. He serves as deputy editor-in-chief of "Pismo Folkowe", awarded the Oskar Kolberg Award 2020 in the category for people and institutions working for folk culture. He co-edits two publishing series ("Gawędy o kulturach" and "EtnoBiblioteka"), is the author of several dozen scientific and popular publications, and is an executor in grant projects financed by the National Humanities Development Program and the Visegrad Fund. He is a member of, among others, the Ethnolinguistic Commission at Linguistics Committee of the Polish Academy of Sciences, the Polish Ethnological Society, the International Organization of Folk Art. He deals with the topics of oral history, memory studies, traditional culture and media.

damian.gocol@mail.umcs.pl

Marcelina Jakimowicz is an ethnologist, PhD in humanities, assistant professor in the Department of Cultural Studies at the Institute of History at the University of Rzeszów. She is interested in the anthropology of memory (in particular problematization of memory), biographical studies and ethnography of Eastern European countries. She has conducted field research in Belarus, Lithuania, Poland, Romania and Ukraine.

mjakimowicz@ur.edu.pl

Marcin Jarząbek is an assistant professor at the Department of Historical Anthropology and History Theory at the Institute of History of the Jagiellonian University. He holds a PhD in history from the Jagiellonian University and MA in Central European History from the Central European University in Budapest. His research focuses on oral history, the collective memory of the First World War veterans and the social and cultural history of the railway. He is interested also in memory studies, modern Central Europe's social and cultural history and the history of concepts. He is an author of the book Legioniści i inni. Pamięć zbiorowa weteranów I wojny światowej w Polsce i Czechosłowacji okresu międzywojennego (The legionnaries and the others. The collective memory of the First World Veterans in interwar Poland and Czechoslovakia, Kraków 2017). Since 2021 he is a president of the Kraków Branch of Polish Historical Society.

marcin.jarzabek@uj.edu.pl

Katarzyna Kość-Ryżko Dr. hab., ethnologist and psychologist; professor in the Centre for Ethnology and Contemporary Anthropology, Institute of Archaeology and Ethnology of the Polish Academy of Sciences in Warsaw; editor of the IAE PAN series "Biblioteka Etnografii Polski" (Library of Polish Ethnography). She specialises in issues at the intersection of ethnopsychology, ethnography and cultural anthropology. Her main areas of interest are the socio-cultural effects of mobility and cultural transgressions, the anthropology of death, cultural practices of commemoration and protection of problematic heritage.

k.kosc-ryzko@iaepan.edu.pl

Zbigniew Kubiatowski PhD, archaeologist; specialist in the promotion of science and cultural heritage. He works at the University of Warsaw as the coordinator of grant-funding for projects; his doctoral thesis was entitled Potrzeby i sposoby promocji archeologii (Needs and means of promoting archaeology). Chair of the Board of the Foundation of the Friends of IAE PAN.

z.kubiatowski@gmail.com

Marta Kubiszyn Dr. hab., is an Associated Professor at the Center for Jewish Studies in the Department of Cultural Studies at Maria Curie-Skłodowska University in Lublin. Her academic research focuses on the role of visual and oral sources in the processes of constructing of the past, Holocaust commemoration and education. Her publications include Niepamięć, postpamięć, współpamięć. Zagłada lubelskich Żydów jako przedmiot kultury pamięci (Non-memory – Post-memory – Co-Memory. The Holocaust of Lublin's Jews as a Subject of Memory Culture) (Lublin 2019), Multicultural education in the local environment. Theoretical and empirical study on the example of the "Grodzka Gate – NN Theater" Center in Lublin (2007), as well as articles on oral history, photography, memory activism and educational work.

marta.kubiszyn@mail.umcs.pl

Wiktoria Kudela-Świątek is an associate professor at the Institute of History and Archival Studies at the University of the National Educational Commission in Kraków, Poland. She is a historian, and East Slavic philologist, graduate at Jagiellonian University. Her academic interests focus on interdisciplinary critical thinking and writing about the past, especially memory studies, oral history, and visual history. She was a research fellow at the Holodomor Research and Educational Consortium (2017, 2024), the Center for Urban History in Lviv (2021), and The Harriman Institute, The Columbia University in New York (2023). She is the author of five books and more than 40 academic articles. Her last book is Eternal Memory. The Monuments and Memorials of the Holodomor (Toronto–Edmonton–Kraków 2021).

wiktoria.kudela-swiatek@uken.krakow.pl

Marta Kurkowska-Budzan is a Professor at the Faculty of History, Jagiellonian University. She holds a degree in history from Jagiellonian University and has also studied sociology at both Jagiellonian University and the University of Kent. Her research focuses on historical methodology, the history of historiography, the social history of post-World War II Poland, and the labour culture of 20th-century Europe. She has served as Principal Investigator on several projects funded by the National Science Centre, Poland, and is currently leading the project "Local Historians and Systemic Change in Poland: Transfers of Ideas (1984–1998)". She also leads the interdisciplinary international research group Homo [Lab]orans, which explores the intersections of labour, culture, environment, and society in historical contexts. Her most recent publication, Sport and Polish Society in the Communist Era: Small Towns and History from Below (co-authored with Marcin Stasiak), was published by Routledge in 2024.

marta.kurkowska-budzan@uj.edu.pl

Aleksandra Kurowska-Susdorf is an assistant Professor at the Department of Sociology and Military History, Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences at the Polish Naval Academy in Gdynia. Her scholarly interests include death studies, kashubian culture, autobiographical pedagogical approaches in education as well as oral history. Author of local educational projects, including those that promote the collective memory in the context of history of the Death March 1945 through Kashubia. Beneficiary of e.g. Federal Assistance Award. U.S. Department of State 2014 w Museum of Jewish Heritage - A Living Memorial to the Holocaust in the USA, New Jork (2014) and DAAD short term research funds for PhD students in Germany, Jena (2015), The Graduate Student/Young Scholar Grant PAHA, Denver, 2017. She is also an active educator in places of remembrance and a museum and a licensed tour guide in Kashubia. Author of e.g. Oswoić śmierć. Edukacyjny potencjał kaszubskich rytuałów pogrzebowych (Warszawa 2019).

a.kurowska-susdorf@amw.gdynia.pl

Ewa Maj historian, doctor of humanities, graduate of the Historical Institute at the University of Wrocław, head specialist in the Research Department of the "Remembrance and Future" Centre and deputy editor-in-chief of "Wrocławski Rocznik Historii Mówionej".

ewa.maj@zajezdnia.org

Rūta Matimaitytė is a doctoral candidate at the Lithuanian Institute of History and junior researcher at Vilnius university, Institute of International Relations and Political Science, EUROPAST project. In her research reveals various views and policies of Soviet authorities aimed at solving the problem of child-beggars in postwar Lithuania and focuses on memory research, e.g. on the topic of silence in the Soviet period about German children of East Prussia. Her research interests span across the fields of migration, children, memory and trauma, as well as the application of oral history.

rmatimaityte@gmail.com

Hubert Mazur PhD in history, Assistant Professor in the Department of Archival and Auxiliary Sciences of History at the University of the Commission of National Education in Kraków. Member of the Committee on Historical Didactics at the Committee on Historical Sciences of the Polish Academy of Sciences and member of the Consultative Group for Strengthening the Sustainability of Social Collections at the Centre of Community Archives. Author of about 100 publications in the field of archival studies. Research interests: archival studies, methodology of making archival resources available, educational activities of archives, didactics of history and historical education in the broadest sense.

hubert.mazur@uken.krakow.pl

Aleksandra Paprot-Wielopolska PhD in ethnology, cultural anthropologist and cultural studies scholar. Assistant Professor at the Institute of Anthropology at the University of Gdańsk. President of the Gdańsk Branch of the Polish Ethnological Society, secretary of the editorial board of the "Atlas of Polish Folk Costumes". She has conducted ethnographic research in Żuławy, Powiśle, Warmia, Mazury, Lublin, Podlasie, Wielkopolska, Małopolska and Olkhon Island in Buryatia. She has authored e.g. Stara Kościelnica. Dzieje żuławskiej wsi (Warszawa 2012), and Atlas niematerialnego dziedzictwa kulturowego wsi wielkopolskiej. Powiat gnieźnieński (vol. 3, 2015), Żuławy i Powiśle. Kreowanie tożsamości lokalnych i regionalnych po 1989 roku (Warszawa 2018).

aleksandra.paprot-wielopolska@ug.edu.pl

Tomáš W. Pavlíček Ph.D., works on cultural history and the history of science; currently leading a Polish–Czech project investigating academic networks during the Cold War, with a focus on the sciences. In collaboration with Barbora Kulawiaková, he contacts historical witnesses from the Polish and Czech scientific communities and conducts interviews with scientists and their students; as well as organizes oral history workshops and meetings with members of scientific expeditions.

pavlicek@mua.cas.cz

Grace Simpson is undertaking a joint doctorate in history and cultural heritage at Jagiellonian University in Kraków and Complutense University of Madrid, conducting research on the individual and collective practices, representations, and expressions of coal miners in authoritarian Poland and Spain between 1958 and 1975. Her research interests cover European labour and trade union history, the cultural history of the Cold War, and industrial heritage.

grace.simpson@doctoral.uj.edu.pl

Anna Wylegała sociologist and assistant professor at the Institute of Philosophy and Sociology at the Polish Academy of Sciences. She has been recording oral history testimonies in numerous documentation and research projects. She is the author of the book Przesiedlenia a pamięć: studium (nie)pamięci społecznej na przykładzie ukraińskiej Galicji i polskich „Ziem Odzyskanych" (Toruń 2015) and Był dwór, nie ma dworu. Reforma rolna w Polsce (Wołowiec 2021). Along with Małgorzata Głowacka-Grajper, she is the co-editor of the book The Burden of the Past History, Memory, and Identity in Contemporary Ukraine (Indiana University Press 2020). She is currently coordinating the Polish part of the project "24/02/2022, 5am: Testimonies From the War", which aims to document the Ukrainian experience of war.

awylegala@ifispan.waw.pl

Maciej Zawistowski MA student at the Department of History, University of Warsaw, BA in history as well as ethnology and cultural anthropology at the Collegium MISH (Interdisciplinary Individual Studies in the Humanities), University of Warsaw. He is an employee of the History Meeting House in Warsaw and a member of the board of the Collegium Invisibile. He is interested in the history of the Western and Northern Territories of Poland, mainly through the lens of oral history, as well as theory of things, memory and heritage studies.

m.zawistowsk@student.uw.edu.pl